

I was recently informed that the FCC has introduced a new broadcast service, LPFM, which you are proposing to expand to the point that it will have priority over national or regional services such as K-LOVE radio. In the city of El Paso, Texas, the selection of Christian radio stations is limited at best. Even more, they are usually on such a tight budget that I cannot receive their signal in the concrete building that I work in. K-LOVE keeps me connected by offering me benefit of streaming their broadcast on my computer at work and home, and the local airwaves when in my car. K-LOVE is more than a radio station, it is a ministry and reaches to my soul with truth that builds me up and encourages me to be a better person. If El Paso were to lose the K-LOVE signal we would not have the benefit of a Christian radio station that encourages our community. El Paso has no local station of this caliber to replace K-LOVE if it were to be taken off the air here. K-LOVE is family friendly, I don't have to worry about the content that is aired being offensive to my children or my parents. I thank you for the opportunity to express my views and hope you will keep them in mind when making your decision.
